Candidate for:

Deputy Secretary

I am eager to contribute to the Vienna Non-Governmental Committee on Drugs as Deputy Secretary, leveraging over 20 years of experience in public policy, stakeholder engagement, and international collaboration. Early in my career, I helped implement the “Beyond 2008” Forum, fostering dialogue on substance use and addiction across sectors. My work has focused on providing strategic advice, building partnerships, and advancing policy initiatives that address complex health and social issues. With a strong track record in engaging diverse stakeholders, including governments, Indigenous communities, and civil society, I am passionate about bridging the gap between civil society and UN agencies. The Committee’s mandate to address key issues and foster partnerships aligns with my belief in inclusive, evidence-based approaches to global drug policy. I am committed to supporting the Committee’s mission and advancing collaborative solutions to drug-related challenges.
